Ha-Shilth-Sa, celebrating 50 years of publishing, is a Nuu-chah-nulth word meaning "Interesting News." It is published by the Nuu-chah-nulth Tribal Council, a non-profit society serving the members of the Nuu-chah-nulth First Nations located along the west coast of Vancouver Island. Ha-Shilth-Sa is Canada's oldest First Nations newspaper. It is published monthly with a circulation of 3,200. It is distributed to Nuu-chah-nulth members on Vancouver Island or wherever they may reside. The newspaper is also sent to a variety of First Nations throughout British Columbia, Yukon and western Canada and to other interested individuals, businesses, institutions, organizations, governments and agencies in Canada, USA and around the world.
